SDG2: Zero Hunger

2.3.3 - Does your university as a body provide sustainable food choices for all on campus, including vegetarian and vegan food?

Alnoor University is committed to offering students nutritious meals with high nutritional value at affordable prices. To this end, the university has adopted a food list that includes a variety of healthy foods with integrated nutritional components that are distributed over the number of days of the week in order to promote the desired metabolism. As a result, meals are served to students that include fresh meat, vegs, and fruits (which are high in protein and vitamins) that are purchased from local farmers who have invested in the agricultural lands near the university campus in an effort to encourage and endorse them in agricultural production. Some examples of the meals served each day are shown In the menu below.
