

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

Encouraging the establishment of peaceful communities where no one is marginalized is essential for achieving sustainable development. This involves ensuring that everyone has access to justice, building effective and accountable institutions that are inclusive at all levels, and significantly reducing illicit flows of money and weapons. Additionally, it includes enhancing the recovery and return of stolen assets and combating all forms of organized crime..

In the presence of Assistant Professor Dr. Nabeel Ahmed Jargis, Alnoor University President Assistant for Administrative Affairs, and in line with the university's commitment to promoting a culture aligned with national efforts to adopt awareness programs that strengthen citizen security, the Follow-up Department at the University Presidency organized a dialogue session. The session included a lecture on violent extremism leading to terrorism, with the participation of four specialists in national security. At the end of the lecture, the President Assistant awarded certificates of appreciation and gratitude to the guest lecturers.

