Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

Encouraging the establishment of peaceful communities where no one is marginalized is essential for achieving sustainable development. This involves ensuring that everyone has access to justice, building effective and accountable institutions that are inclusive at all levels, and significantly reducing illicit flows of money and weapons. Additionally, it includes enhancing the recovery and return of stolen assets and combating all forms of organized crime..

Alnoor University participated in the central conference organized by the Northern Technical University under the patronage of His Excellency the Minister of Higher Education and Scientific Research, Dr. Naeem Al-Aboudi, and under the supervision of Professor Dr. Alia Abbas Ali Al-Attar, President of the Northern Technical University. The conference was titled "Activating the Academic Role in Achieving National Unity and Combating Extremist Ideology in Nineveh Universities." The second theme of the conference focused on employing modern technologies to counter ideological terrorism, with the participation of academics and researchers from various universities. Representing Alnoor University was Dr. Bashar Mahmood Ali, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, who reaffirmed the university's commitment to supporting efforts to combat extremism and promote national unity through education and knowledge.
