

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

Encouraging the establishment of peaceful communities where no one is marginalized is essential for achieving sustainable development. This involves ensuring that everyone has access to justice, building effective and accountable institutions that are inclusive at all levels, and significantly reducing illicit flows of money and weapons. Additionally, it includes enhancing the recovery and return of stolen assets and combating all forms of organized crime..

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

Dr. Nabeel Nour Al-Din, Director of the Alnoor Center for Cultural Heritage Preservation at Alnoor University, participated as a member of the examination committee for the Ph.D. dissertation submitted electronically by researcher Ghufran Sabri to the University of Amsterdam, entitled: "The Social Fabric of Mosul: Conflicts of Historical Phases and the Future of Cultural Heritage in a Civilized Society Facing Political Crossroads." It is worth mentioning that researcher Ghufran Sabri serves as an Assistant Lecturer in the Department of Archaeological Tourism at the College of Arts – Alnoor University. His dissertation represents a significant scholarly contribution to the study of social transformations and cultural challenges in the city of Mosul, and the political and cultural intersections it has faced throughout its diverse historical stages.

