

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

Encouraging the establishment of peaceful communities where no one is marginalized is essential for achieving sustainable development. This involves ensuring that everyone has access to justice, building effective and accountable institutions that are inclusive at all levels, and significantly reducing illicit flows of money and weapons. Additionally, it includes enhancing the recovery and return of stolen assets and combating all forms of organized crime..

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

College of Law

As part of Alnoor University's active engagement in scientific activities that address societal issues, Assistant Professor Dr. Ahmed Mustafa Ali, Dean of the College of Law and Political Science at the university, participated in a specialized training course titled "The Integrated Roles of Human Rights Unit Officers." The course was organized by the Human Rights Division at the University of Mosul, in cooperation with the Nineveh Office of the Iraqi High Commission for Human Rights, and was attended by representatives from various universities and relevant institutions. The training addressed key topics related to promoting a culture of human rights within the academic environment, and strengthening the role of human rights units in raising awareness and serving the community. This participation reflects Alnoor University's openness to its academic and social surroundings, and its commitment to contributing to the creation of a university environment that upholds human values, justice, and mutual respect.

