

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

Encouraging the establishment of peaceful communities where no one is marginalized is essential for achieving sustainable development. This involves ensuring that everyone has access to justice, building effective and accountable institutions that are inclusive at all levels, and significantly reducing illicit flows of money and weapons. Additionally, it includes enhancing the recovery and return of stolen assets and combating all forms of organized crime..

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

College of Law

The College of Law and Political Science at Alnoor University organized a training workshop titled “Practical Applications of Forensic Evidence” under the supervision of Assistant Professor Dr. Ahmed Mustafa Ali, Dean of the College. The workshop included a series of specialized lectures delivered by five experts from the Forensic Evidence Department in Nineveh Province. They addressed both the scientific and practical aspects of employing forensic evidence to serve justice and uncover crimes. The workshop also featured practical field demonstrations that enhanced students’ applied skills and enriched their knowledge of modern criminal investigation methods and evidence analysis techniques. This workshop is part of Alnoor University’s ongoing program aimed at bridging theoretical study with practical application and preparing qualified legal professionals capable of serving society and justice at an advanced professional level.

