

Sustainable Development Goals

Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

Encouraging the establishment of peaceful communities where no one is marginalized is essential for achieving sustainable development. This involves ensuring that everyone has access to justice, building effective and accountable institutions that are inclusive at all levels, and significantly reducing illicit flows of money and weapons. Additionally, it includes enhancing the recovery and return of stolen assets and combating all forms of organized crime..

The Department of University Psychological Counseling organized a scientific workshop entitled “The Culture of Tolerance and Acceptance of Others as a Foundation for Peaceful Coexistence.” It was supervised by Assistant Professor Dr. Ahmed Saeed Rasheed, who introduced the concept of tolerance and acceptance of others. Lecturer Dr. Hossam Zidan Shukr discussed the importance of tolerance for individuals, while Assistant Lecturer Marwa Shaker Habib explained how a person can embody tolerance. Assistant Lecturer Seel Faiz Sadiq addressed the psychological impact of tolerance, and Ghufraan Hassan Mohsen outlined its types and forms. Finally, Saja Bilal Jasim highlighted the motivations behind promoting the values of tolerance.

